Asphalt "Freeze" Stops Finishing Of Highway

When one hears the words "Asphalt Freeze" he will think of how it acts when it gets cold after being boiled to go on the road.

But there is a kind of freezing different to temperature.

The last tank or car load of asphalt on the way was sprinkled on the Hamlin end of the Rotan-Hamlin highway Saturday afternoon.

This means that the road now stands within 8 miles of Rotan, nearly done. It is completed from Hamlin's main street at Highway No. 83 west to the rail road. From there on to past the Hitson store it has had only the "primer" coat of high percentage asphalt. Then from about Hitson west it is finished to where the base has been laid within eight miles east of Rotan.

This seems all that can be done till the government gets all of its needed war work constructions finished. You know it takes lots of asphalt to build landing fields all over the nation and lots of them in other parts of the world. So whatever can go undone must wait. Perhaps by the summer of 1943 enough asphalt can be had to complete the road.

All Monday morning, big trucks, machinery and men were checking out from Thomas & Ratliff, the contractors, to start for McGregor, where they are working on a shell loading plant. Here's hoping they will bring their outfit back sometime and finish our road.

The highway through town is a lovely piece of work. It makes a wide, fully paved street for seven blocks. Now the City will come in and shape up the avenues both on the north and south of the highway to enable proper drainage at intersections. We are now ready to see a lot of civic pride on the city end of Highway No. 92. Yes, and there will be need of stop signs at every crossing to keep somebody from being cut into two or a dozen pieces. Better stop and take it easy across that new highway-street.

Oil Mill Offers Free Cotton Inspection

J. E. Moody, manager of the Hamlin Oil Mill, announces that his company is offering the services of Mr. L. W. Bramblett, Entomologist, experienced in cotton infection, to be in Hamlin every Wednesday through the critical season. Maybe you will want to keep a check-up on what the bugs are doing in your cotton fields.

Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Hemphill spent part of last week visiting their son, Glendon in Amarillo. He is employed at the Partex Ordnance Plant which is under construction. Hemphill is an assistant superintendent in the field that extends over about 25 square miles.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Henderson have returned to their home in McCaulley after several weeks at Trent where Mr. Henderson has been working with an oil well drilling contractor.

Mrs. T. J. Routh of Abilene, one of the pioneer women of Hamlin, mother of Tom Routh, enjoyed her 75th birthday last Saturday. All of her children had visited her recently.

Guessing At Votes Can't Hurt, Like The Straw-Vote Reports

It will at least be interesting to see how Hamlin people, a true cross-section of the people, on the streets, guessed at the senatorial election Thursday morning. Just guessing, remember, and lots of the guess was different to their wishes. Let's see how they look . . . the percentages of all the Texas vote Saturday:

This week Hamlin Lions' president Herman McBride and wife are in Toronto, Canada, attending the Lions International Convention.

Methodist Revival To Close Sunday Night

The revival at the Methodist church conducted by Rev. T. Marvin McBrayer, Childress, will come to a close next Sunday night. The revival has grown with interest and attendance at each service. The high light service thus far was Tuesday night when at a special service for young people and adults in the closing moments of the service, fourteen young people were rededicated and one or two converted.

Bro. McBrayer has been bringing some of the greatest Gospel messages we have heard in a long, long time and the church and community is being richly blessed and revived. A special service for elderly people will be conducted Friday morning in the church basement so every old person who wishes to attend may come without having to climb the high steps. We are anxious to have every old person possible in that service.

The revival has been a great blessing to Methodism in Hamlin and we trust to the entire community. We deeply appreciate every one that has attended and helped in any way to make it a success. The wonderful services rendered by Bro. McBrayer are appreciated by all of us. We are expecting the last few services of the revival to be the greatest and are hoping to close out with a great old time, Holy Ghost, Pentecostal, spirit filled revival.

Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

James E. Harrell, Pastor

Mrs. Jack Wilson and son Randy of Breckenridge, came Wednesday to bring Mrs. M. Y. Wilson, who had been in Breckenridge visiting her son, Jack Wilson and family, home. They were accompanied by Mrs. Ross Walker and son, John Thomas, who were guests for the day of her sister, Mrs. E. M. Wilson.

Misses Nina and Patsy Ann York of Pasadena, Calif., nieces of Mrs. Tom Routh, visited here the past two weeks. They accompanied their grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rothell to Fort Worth Monday to spend a part of the summer. Also Miss Dorothy Fern Routh went with them for a short visit.

Miss Gladys Hall came Wednesday to accept a position in the Magee Beauty Shop. Miss Hall is originally from Mississippi, but has been employed for some time in a beauty shop in Anson.

Mrs. Eunice Thompson left last Saturday for Hobbs, New Mexico, to meet her daughter, Mrs. Irene Tupper of El Paso, Texas. While en route home they stopped in Colorado City to visit Mrs. Thompson's father, H. C. Hughes, and attend a family reunion with 22 present. Mrs. Tupper will visit here for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Scifers of Whiteface, Texas, spent several days this week with relatives and with Mr. and Mrs. Fed Britton.

Rental Registration At Red Cross Room

Registration of rental property in Hamlin will be held at the Red Cross Room on Wednesday and Thursday, July 29th and 30th.

The registration is locally sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and work will be done by volunteer helpers.

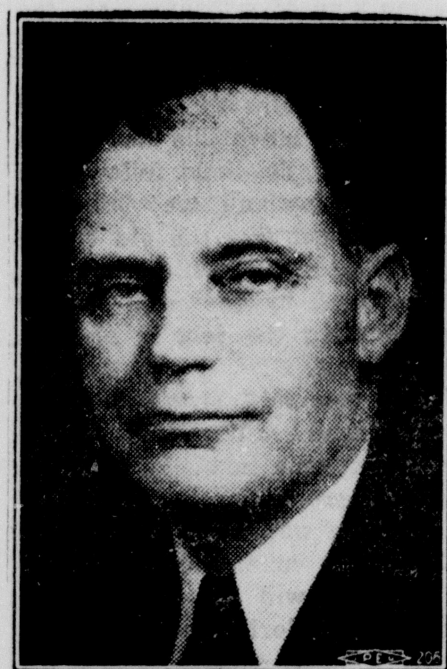

Area headquarters of Rent Division, Office of Price Administration, is at Abilene, Texas, Fulwiler Building.

Charlie Bryson returned last Saturday from a three weeks stay in Old Mexico, where he has a 40,000 acre ranch. Charlie acquired this about thirty years ago, in the form of a 99 year lease from the government. He has a Mexican fellow who was born on the ranch who has been in charge for all these years. He is now 75 years of age and a fine cow hand. Charlie says there is a town on the ranch, called Tranquitas, back about 100 miles from any rail road. There nearly all the people are Indian. They regard Bryson as a royal personage and since it had been three years since he was there they made hoopy every night in a dance in his honor except the last night. They are deeply Catholic and pray for those whom they love on a departure. However he says when a death comes they all get drunk. Bryson has a small house there furnished and kept ready for him. He can tell a lot of interesting things about that quaint country.

Paul Steed came up from Austin Friday in company with his brother, James Steed, the sailor, to be here a few days while James is on his leave. Paul is taking a course in the State University preparatory to going into some kind of defense work. He is a little over 19 years of age and he thinks his time will come next year to go into army work. He will finish his course about August 25th.

Coy Magee came down from Washington City Sunday for a week with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. S. Magee. Coy has been with the General Accounting Office in Washington for 18 months.

Registering of Houses, Apartments, Flats, etc.

Registration of all housing accommodations, including houses, apartments, flats and all other similar places is now being done by landlords in the Hamlin defense-rental area including Jones, Taylor and Callahan counties, according to Russell S. Stephens, area rent director.

Forms, known as registration statements, will be available at the area rent office, 44-50 Fulwiler Bldg., Abilene.

Although deadline for the registration forms will be on August 15, Area Rent Director Stephens said, "Let me urge that landlords not wait until the last minute to fill out their registration statements. Fill it out carefully and accurately. By doing this, we will all save time. Filling out a form incorrectly means doing it over again. Let's try not to have any more of this than we can help."

Made in triplicate, the registration statement necessitates only one filling out, as the second and third copies are made by carbons. The original copy, printed in blue, will remain on file in the area rent office. Two carbon copies are for the landlord and tenant. The landlord's copy is printed in red, the tenant's printed in green. When the statement is received in the area rent office, it is carefully inspected, and if it appears to be in order as to the rent being charged and to the services being provided, with respect to the maximum rent date, APRIL 1, 1941, for this area, both copies are stamped and mailed, one to the tenant, and one to the landlord.

The statement asks the rent that was charged on the maximum rent date, April 1, 1941, for this area, and asks the landlord to write in the maximum legal rent which will be the same rent as that charged on the maximum rent date with certain exceptions. These exceptions include the situation when the dwelling unit was either vacant or owner-occupied on the maximum rent date and two months preceding that date, but rented sometime before July 1 (effective date) of this year. In this case, the landlord must report the rent charged on the first date rented during this period. This rent becomes the maximum legal rent, subject to review by the area rent director, Mr. Stephens.

Other exceptions include—when the dwelling unit has been constructed since the maximum rent date or substantially changed by a major capital improvement, then the rent to put down is the first rent charged after the construction or alteration. The same holds if the accommodations were changed from unfurnished to furnished or vice versa. In all these exceptions, the rent which the landlord puts down as his first rent charged he also puts down as the maximum legal rent and makes an explanation of the situation. Rents in these cases are subject to review by the area rent director.

Registrations of hotels and rooming houses will be held at a later date, but if a person sub-lets a room to only one or two persons, he registers now.

Notice the date after your name.

THE WAR—

As We See It,

Monday, July 20th—

All the past week the attitude of the American people towards the war has been one of "Waiting, Maybe, Let's See, Hope So, etc."

During this time we hear many things which seem to becloud and befuddle the public. There is no especial change on any war front, not even on the "Conference Front". The Germans have made the most changes. They have gobbled up many square miles of Russian farm lands and towns since last week's report. Look at the map and trace the Don River. Note it bends far to the east after leaving Vorenezh till it almost touches the great Volga north of the big industrial city of Stalingrad, then the Don starts back southwest to enter the Sea of Azov at another great city—Rostov. In this great bend the Russians are putting up their greatest fight of all time. Whether the Russians can hold the Germans on the Don is a question.

From here on till the United States can shape itself up to place a million or two men on a foreign field, with all the equipment they need, it seems all Our Nations can do is just "hold". Note we say "Our Nations" and we use that term after consideration for "United Nations". From here out it will be "Our Nations' Armies" regardless of race or place.

While holding the Germans and the Japs and Wops, remember Our Nations are hurting them far more than they are hurting us. Take the Rommel army for example. It has two purposes in making out like it is trying to take the Suez country. First to scare Our Nations in making a show toward Egypt; and second to entertain as many men and equipment on the desert sands as long as possible to keep them from hitting in some vital spot. So while Rommel is held to the spot he is getting cut to pieces by the growing power of men and machines.

Don't get it into your minds that the Japs have quit. They seem very quiet for some purpose to make a push on us somewhere. They are playing the game as it was laid out years or months ago. Better watch the Japs. They don't mind getting a hundred thousand men killed to carry their point.

Now how about US? The most welcome statement (whether true or not) was expressed by some important military man at Dallas last week. He said we are now producing more guns, more munitions, shells, tanks, planes, bombs, and thousands of other things than the Army and Navy Needs. Transporting them to the lands where needed is the task now. It will be good to hear that we have "enough" in the men's hands and ahead of time for once.

The fighting spirit that is shown by every type of men, in all ranks and departments of service plainly shows that Our Nations are about ready to hit and will hit hard with lightning like speed at the right hour. There is no room for an "IF" in talking about the outcome. If we were as sure of the "set-up" after the war as we are the outcome of the war, all of us would feel better. What the future holds after the war will be in the hands of the mass public, and by that we mean chiefly the people of the United States. But America can not win the war by conferences and talk. Big men sitting up in cool offices far from the battle front will not win this war. Somebody will have to get their hands soiled and a lot of skin scratching till it hurts. Shifting and shuffling and squirming in air cooled offices does not hurt the on-coming Germans, the crafty Japs and the sick Italians.

If we have the stuff to sling at them let's get to slinging it and stop holding conferences. You can't conceal much from the enemy. They know our bluffs as well as we know theirs. The morale of the American people is high, but waiting, backing up, losing ground, does not fit our way of doing things.

—T & T—

Zero Hour—

As you read this it is "ZERO HOUR" for Texas voters.

Not many people have really fixed their minds on whom they expect to vote for Saturday, except in perhaps one or two races.

It is Zero Hour for every voter, for he must go over the top either to victory or defeat. A lot may depend upon which way the battle of ballots goes.

When you look at the ticket you will no doubt see names for office you never heard of before, and you will begin to guess. Wouldn't it be far better to inquire of someone whom you have confidence in, to get your mind fixed upon the best one for the job? Even the best informed might have to guess a little. Every name represents just a human being, just about like YOU. No super-men or women, all engulfed in the same kind of selfishness as the voter. So don't expect the impossible.

A newly nominated or elected person is very much like New Years Day. You hale the little fellow with flattery and joy and ere long he turns out about like the old officer . . . a thing to be reviled, belittled and bemoaned by the next "young thing" wanting the job, in about a year and half.

Who to vote for? That's the question. The world will roll on if you do not get your man. It has, and made progress, so far, with a lot of men in office who forgot who elected them. The candidates nominated this Saturday will not be any better than the majority choosing them.

—T & T—

No Candidates—

This is Monday morning of the week of the Primary Election on July 25, 1942, and to this hour not one single solitary candidate for state or district office, has been in Hamlin except one little fellow who must have gotten lost and finally wound up on our streets for one stop to feel his way over new roads under construction.

Further, as far as this Editor has heard or seen, not one single "campaigner" has appeared here for any candidate. This is so unusual, that it belongs to "believe it or not". Generally some off-shots, up-shots, or high-shots drift into Hamlin to lay down a blast for a candidate that is paying for their gas. Not so this year.

Hamlin is fortunate. No loud-speaker blam-blam, no street speaking, no lawn parties for would-be office holders has disturbed the quiet cool nights of Hamlin this 1942. Being in the corner of a county has its advantages after all, if you count missing the "music" as not meaning much. Jim Ferguson was the only candidate that Texas ever had who would not pass up Hamlin. Dan Moody came here once but first got stuck in the mud coming down hill between Rotan and Hamlin. Yes sir, Hamlin has missed the "music" all together this year.

—T & T—

The other night Ye Editor listened to politics over the radio, coming out of Oklahoma. Up there just like it is down here in Texas, the same kind of arguments were about what the opponent did or did not do. There was some real sound stuff and a lot of silly chaff to tickle the ignorant sentimental to vote their way. You can't have a campaign without that kind of barn-yard dust in it. It depends upon who slings it as to whether you like it or not. If it be YOUR man it is OK, if it is the other fellow it is all wrong to be slinging mud.

—T & T—

Why A Town?

This Hamlin town, like all other towns, great and small, did not just come into existence because it was a good place to erect houses. Every town, great or small, came into existence because of some human need. So on the other hand when that "human need" passes, so does the town. If the need continues, then the town will hold its own and perhaps grow.

Now let's get down to real examples: Take any off railroad, community place, or cross-roads. Once upon a time they had a thriving dry goods store, maybe two; a grocery store or two, and with that a couple of thriving churches, a well attended school, maybe a doctor, and a few drugs and plenty of community entertainment. That was in the days of slow transportation, and muddy roads, maybe just rural mail, or perhaps none. Distance counted then and the "country town" was a necessary convenience. It changed as transportation improved. Now only one or two filling stations; a small store, limited in services; the sound of the blacksmith's hammer may ring a mournful beat on a passing plow, but service has drifted to a farther point, where other services can be had in a "bunch". Five minutes spent in 1942 will count nothing in going 15 miles, compared to two hours in the days of the horse and wagon age, in going "down to the store".

So today "service" hinges a town to a community. As the rubber situation gets worse or better folks will go where "service" is rendered. Rural folks are fortunate to have something to market, and an extra ten minutes getting to a town where services are ready and anxiously awaited, there the farmer and his family will go and who can blame them.

The farmer says since tire use is precious, then let's go to the town where we can get everything at one trip. If the bank is open a few miles farther away on Saturday, then let's go that way. Maybe it will take 15 minutes longer to go to a town where a post office will be open and handle a package that should be delivered to a loved one on Monday, hence let's go to the town where the post office is open.

Service is service and he who can render it when the customer wants it deserves the patronage. The less a town has to offer the less excuse it has for existence. It is a fine thing to hear, "You can get it in Hamlin" . . . and it hurts everybody when service must be found elsewhere.

The more a town closes up on Saturdays, in an agricultural country, the less service it renders . . . the less excuse it has to exist. If a farmer has to come to town before noon on Saturday he practically loses the whole day. If he can attend to certain kinds of business and knows full well there is someone there waiting to meet him in the afternoon, then he can continue on till noon, or later, then shave up, clean up and go to town and attend to several kinds of business all at one trip. It is the trouble in getting started, and once the start, he does not figure the loss of 15 or 20 minutes extra to reach the place he knows he can get satisfaction.

Serving the public involves more than making profits.

Many towns slowly get smaller as their age of usefulness lessens. It is just like a boy taking off from his job an hour or a day off frequently, finally his boss decides that maybe he can save that expense and lets the kid off. It is up to the citizens of most good rail road towns whether they "take off" or be "let off".

—T & T—

FARMERS . . .

Make every market-day BOND DAY!

For our fighting men, for our country's future and for freedom we must meet and beat our county War Bond quota and keep on doing it.

Pick up your War Bonds and Stamps on your second stop in town . . . right after you've sold your eggs, milk, poultry, stock or grain. No investment is too small and no investment is too large . . . the important thing is to buy every time you sell!

And today America is taking the offensive against the Axis with hard-fighting, non-stoppage men and materials!

We're taking the offensive, too, against the enemy at home—the inflationary 6th column that blows prices sky high.

You can help in both fights by saving at least 10% of your money in U. S. War Bonds every pay day. Attack the Axis with your dollars today.

You can start with as little as a 10c War Stamp and you can get a $25.00 War Bond (maturity value) for only $18.75—at your local post office, bank or other convenient sales agency.

About Soldiers--Sailors

Pvt. Thomas R. Hill left Monday for Ft. Lewis, Washington, to rejoin his outfit, Troup A—115th Cavalry, after a ten day furlough at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hill. This young fellow says no need to worry about Texas, for wherever there is an army unit, you will find a few Texans. He and Onis Crawford are from Hamlin and one each from Lubbock and Ozona, are all in the same "horseless Troup-A". Hill says a Jeep beats a mule jumping and you don't have to curry and pet 'em. From the way Hill talks, he is about ready for action. He says they chase all over the woods and hills up there and they don't give a heck where they are or where they stop. He is not home sick any more, does not care about war news and politics—all they want is to use their iron Jacks to put a Jap out of the way. O yes, Hill says it does not make any difference whether a boy gets $50 or $250 per month—he can gamble on $50 about as long as on more cash. One other thing, Hill will bet anybody the war will be over in one more year . . . and if they were all as big, as tough and fightin' to go like he is, his bet would hold good only if the forces were let go.

James I. Steed, Jr., seaman from the Cruiser Pensacola, arrived home Saturday on a "transfer" trip from coast to coast, on a 30 days leave. He came through by Dallas to visit his aunts, Mrs. Paul Wilbaum and Miss Clonell Harris and then to Austin to pick up his brother Paul to come on to Hamlin with him. James has been in the Navy just three years and especially since Dec. 7th he and his ship Pensacola have been scooting over the Pacific. James does not seem a bit scared of the Japs. He was in the Navigation end of his ship and that meant he knew at all times where they were and where they were trying to get to. He was out a few days from Pearl Harbor escorting a convoy of ships on Dec. 7 and it was lucky they kept going. James can tell a lot about the Pacific. He says you don't see all the islands on the maps. He has crossed the equator so many times since last Dec. 7 he hardly knows whether he has missed a winter or gained a summer. The same is true about that 180th meridian that cut him out of Valentine Day. Imagine two old Hamlin kids from the same block, who played war in the same alley meeting "way down under". James says the world is not as large as he one time thought it was. Yes he and Roy Tims had Christmas in Brisbane, Australia together. Steed is going on to Norfolk, Va., to take a course of instruction in Aviation Machinists School. This will give him a much better rating and perhaps will lead on to an aviation pilot. He will report about August 10.

Friends of L. Archie Carson, a fireman first class on the Battleship Washington, Div. A, have received letters lately that he would like to hear from his Plasterco friends. Letters addressed care P. M., New York City, will reach him. A letter from anybody from home helps the boys.

Raymond C. (Buster) Garrett, who has been in the Great Lakes Naval Base near Chicago, has been spending his final leave at home this week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. Garrett. He will report back there Sunday at noon and likely will be assigned to some sea duty. Garrett and Thurston Havens did not make the grade as submarine sailors—just why they do not know—Garrett thinks he was too tall.

Two more Hamlin boys are going to get the home paper after this week. They are John H. Lindsey of the 86th Material Sqd. at Columbus, Miss., and his brother, Pvt. Fred E. Lindsey of the 362 Inf. 91 Div. at Camp White, Medford, Oregon. Their brother Henry is seeing to it that these boys get the Herald.

Wednesday morning going down the street, we noticed a regular "gang" of sailors—sailors by the dozen away over here in Hamlin. Well the Great Lakes Training Station works fast. Before sending out the Hamlin boys to the high seas, they get 'em ready and then let 'em come home for another look at Hamlin before leaving. So we saw sailors Spencer Liles, Alfred Millhorn, John Walker and Buster Garrett ganged up in their white suits and black ties. This is not all of the bunch in that Station. It is beginning to appear the navy is outnumbering the army. It is funny how the old West Texas kids take to water. They all have learned to swim, believe it or not.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

(By BOYCE HOUSE)

Folks, old Boyce House is so busy that let's fill up the space this week with a quotation from a man who can really write—former Governor Pat M. Neff, my good friend, as he is the friend of all the 6,500,000 citizens of this state. In his book, "Making Texans", he pays this tribute to "The Hen":

The hen, hatched and raised in the lowly environment of the barnyard, has scratched her way to fame and fortune. Though she lives and labors in humble surroundings, her cackle—like the voice of freedom—is heard around the world. Here is a universal language. It is understood wherever the tongues of men fashion the symbols of speech. Her beauty is unadorned in the realms of art but she is known wherever the dinner bell is heard or the banquet board is spread.

Hers is not the elfin grace of the swan. Hers is not the sweet song of the canary. Hers is not the colorful glory of the peacock. Hers is not the arrogant pride of the eagle. And yet all these feathered favorites combined do not rank as high in the affairs and the affections of men as does the placid, the diligent and the unpretentious hen.

"Pay as you go" is the hen's policy. She is self-sustaining. Not long ago, a carload of hens was shipped from Texas to New York and they laid enough eggs on the trip to pay for the freight.

This is an age of substitution. We substitute cotton for silk, oleomargarine for butter, and jazz for music; but there is no satisfactory substitute for the vitamin contents and mineral compounds of an egg. The hen has less than a teaspoonful of brains and she boasts no college degree; yet she is the most expert alchemist of the ages. She mixes in her simple laboratory the elements of calcium, magnesium, iron, sodium, potassium, chlorine, sulphur and phosphorized fats—mixes them into rich and well-balanced nutrients in a sanitary and protective shell. She defies the world to make a substitute.

The home is the hub of humanity. On its stability, civilization depends. The hen is a home-maker. She supplies the table, fills the wardrobe and lifts the mortgage. The farm wife of the henless home has no bank account. The hen is the only servant that can just "lay" around the house and still make money.

The hen, feathered aristocrat of the barnyard, the only billion-dollar bird beneath American skies, should be our national bird. No longer should the selfish, haughty, arrogant eagle, which never earns an honest dollar, adorn the nation's coin. Contrary to the American spirit, the eagle makes war on the smaller birds and steals its food from creatures too weak to protect their own. All you can say in favor of the eagle is that it flies above the clouds and builds its nest high on the mountain crag. Its meat, its feathers, its eggs and its offspring are worthless in both the homes and the marts of men.

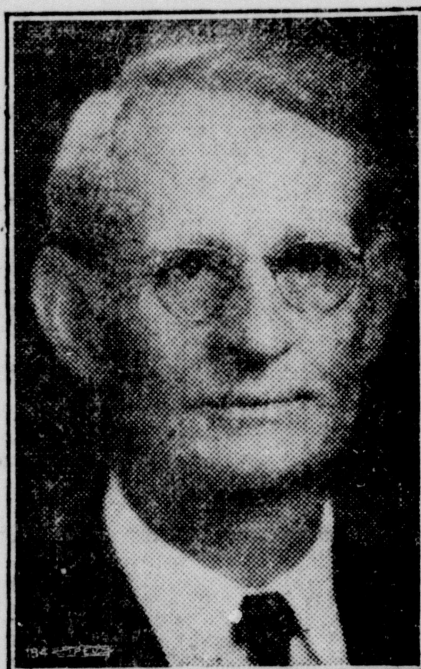

The image of the honest, patient, efficient hen who, by picking up the scattered grain and turning it into gold, has made her business one of the biggest industries beneath the American flag—hers is the image that should go upon our coin. She graces alike the paltry meal of the plebeian and the epicurean board of the plutocrat. She cackles but she does not crow. Her daughters are everywhere; her sons never set. Hats off to the hen!

A Ship Builder Writes An Interesting Letter

Orange, Texas
412 4th Street

Dear Mr. Pope:

How is dear old Hamlin and the people there in? It has been some three months since I left there and came to Orange to work in the largest shipyard in Texas.

They have 24 ships or destroyers under construction now, all at the same time. It is amazing to see all this mass of workmanship going on night and day. There are 15,000 men here now working. That is besides the people that live here. The city of Orange is about the size of Stamford, Texas.

So you can just figure out where so many folks stay in such small city. Some have trailer houses and a few sleep in the park. Of course they scatter out to the surrounding towns. But every vacant space is filled up with people from Houston this way, and on into Louisiana.

But it is really amusing to see all these men going to work in the morning and coming out at 5:30 o'clock in the evening. My job here is cable electrician. We are called Marine Electricians. Each man has one line of work only. My work is to see that each electric cable is put in the proper place. These cables are insulated with rubber on the inside and covered with aluminum braid. So you see where a great deal of the aluminum that we all saved up at home is used.

These destroyers are solid steel from front to stern and there are 25,000 feet of this electric cable in one ship alone. These ships are about 392 feet long, 50 feet wide and 40 feet deep, and then the trimmings that go on top. It costs about $12,000,000 to build one of these destroyers, so you see how great the expense of a war is.

It is a hard place to work, Mr. Pope, and so hot inside these steel ships that you almost want to give up sometimes. But there never was a battle won by giving up. I came down here, not for the money that I might accumulate out of it, but for one thing. That is to do my little bit to help win this war, and I think that is the ambition of most of the men here.

Because it is a work that most

Beauford Jester Wants R. R. Commission Job

Pledging efficient operations of the Texas Railroad Commission in gearing Texas oil and transportation systems to the war effort, Beauford H. Jester of Corsicana is entering the final phase of his first primary campaign for the unexpired term on the commission.

It is the first campaign for public office for the Corsicana lawyer who was an infantry captain in the first world war and who has announced he seeks the railroad commission post to render a war time service to his state and nation.

"In these days when petroleum means so much to our fighting machine and when transportation is the real key to keeping our men at the front supplied with their necessary materials, the railroad commission's job is one of the greatest war services available," Jester declared.

Denied readmission to the armed forces with which he served overseas in 1917-18, due to physical disqualification, Jester has pledged that Texas oil and transportation shall not prove bottle-necks for men in the armed forces.

Jester, whose father was elected Lieutenant Governor of Texas in 1894, is a member of a pioneer Navarro County family. He served as chairman of the board of regents of the University of Texas from 1933 to 1935, and is generally credited with having been the man most responsible for the University's great building program of the 30's.

In addition to his war program for the commission, Jester has said that he favors the return of oil production control to the railroad commission after the war. For the duration, the State's oil and transportation must be tied with the production and transportation of the other 47 members of the Union, he says, but afterward, State's rights must be revived.

Most people favor that which will return them something for nothing or much for little.

It is as hard for a rich man to enter heaven as it is for a poor man to live on earth.

10-Year Shifts in Texas Income and Outgo

HOW the sources of Texas' income have shifted during the past decade is illustrated by the above chart, made public by James C. Tucker, partner of Barcus, Kindred & Company, of Austin, specialists in Texas municipal bonds.

Texas' income in 1941 exceeded the 1931 revenue by $93,892,132, while the state's 1941 expenditures were $64,908,569 above the 1931 total.

Analysis of the sources of state revenue and the purposes for which funds were spent, reveals that: Fifteen per cent of the 1941 income was derived from sources non-existent a decade before—mainly liquor, wine and beer tax and employers' contributions for unemployment compensation.

Public welfare expenditures, consisting of $3,600,829 for pensions in 1931, were $34,406,200 in 1941.

State expenditures for education and for highways totaled $107,008,655 in 1941, compared with $82,431,756 ten years before. These outlays which included state aid for school districts and local road districts, helped lower the tax burden in the communities receiving them and thus strengthened their bonds.

Income from motor fuel taxes increased 80 per cent.

Greater War-Time Truck and Bus Use Will Aid Texas Gasoline Tax Revenue

WITH substantial amounts of Texas' gasoline tax paid by commercial trucks vital to transportation, by buses, by cars of defense plant workers and by other passengers engaged in essential business, it is possible that increased war-time activities may partially offset war curtailment.

This view is expressed in a study of the outlook for Texas state aid high-way bonds, released by James C. Tucker, partner of Barcus, Kindred & Co., of Austin, municipal bond specialists. These state aid bonds receive 1¢ of the 4¢ state gasoline tax.

Figures from the Planning Survey of the Texas Highway Department are cited, showing that 28 per cent of Texas gasoline taxes are paid by trucks and buses and 72 per cent by passenger cars. The study then points out that interest charges on state aid bonds during the next five years could be paid if collections fell to only 29 per cent of the 1941 receipts.

Surveying the future outlook, the study states that if gas tax collections cover interest charges but not all maturing principal, two courses are open:

1—Counties may levy taxes to cover deficiencies. In the first three years of the State Aid Act, counties were required to levy taxes averaging $2,000,000 to cover estimated deficiencies. They are economically better able to provide such amounts today.

2—Maturing principal of state aid bonds may be refunded. Inasmuch as $28,956,541 or 34 per cent of the present outstanding state aid, matures within the next five fiscal years, some extension of principal maturities would be justified.

Texas School Aid Funds Show Increase Of 14 Million Dollars in Past Decade

State aid for Texas schools has increased $14,000,000 during the past decade, it was revealed in a study compiled by James C. Tucker, partner of Barcus, Kindred & Company of Austin, specialists in municipal bonds.

In 1931 such aid amounted to $32,605,013. By 1941 it had risen to $46,633,496, an increase of 43 per cent.

State aid to schools is administered through four main funds, the study explains—the available school; rural aid; vocational aid; and free textbooks funds. Of these, the available school fund with a basic state apportionment of $22.50 per child of school age, paid $36,395,023 to local districts in 1941, as against $27,342,473 in 1931, when the per child figure was $17.50.

Expenditures from the rural aid fund which is designed to equalize opportunity between rural and city school districts were $7,615,974 in 1941 compared with $2,718,263 a decade before; but expenditures for free textbooks decreased from $2,232,370 to $1,624,117. Vocational aid disbursements increased from $311,907 to $998,382 during the decade. This was exclusive of Federal vocational aid, which increased from $376,319 to $3,637,939; $2,376,775 of this latter figure was for training defense workers.

Since per capita education cost is about $64 per year, Texas paid over one-third of the cost throughout the state last year.

"By devoting part of the proceeds of a number of taxes to state aid," says the report, "Texas distributes the load for this purpose. The bonds of the communities receiving state aid are thus strengthened and the likelihood of additional tax levies for school purposes decreased."

Texas Cuts Local Debt $19 Per Capita in Past Decade

Texas has reduced its state and local debt $19 per capita since 1932, while the corresponding debt of the entire United States has been decreased only $3 per capita, according to a statistical analysis issued by James C. Tucker, partner of Barcus, Kindred & Company of Austin, municipal bond specialists.

Between 1932 and 1940, Texas' gross state and local debt declined from $134 per capita to $115 per capita, Mr. Tucker's figures show. During the same period, similar debt for the United States as a whole decreased from $157 to $154 per capita.

Thus Texas' debt reduction record was nearly seven times greater than that of the entire country. The figures were 14.77 and 2.2 per cent, respectively.

WELL-ROUNDED TEXAS INCOME REGARDED AS STABILIZING FACTOR

Texas was cited as an example of a "well-balanced income state" in a survey compiled by James C. Tucker, partner of Barcus, Kindred & Company, of Austin, specialists in municipal bonds.

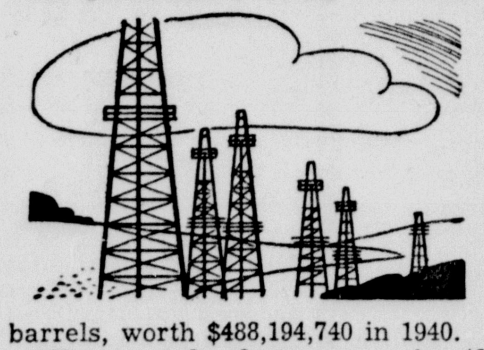

Illustrative of the diversified nature of the state's revenue sources, he listed the following:

A cash farm income of $655,000,000

Manufacturing production valued at $1,530,220,676 in 1939.

Lumber production totaling 1,225,000,000 board feet, valued between 40 and 50 million dollars in 1940.

Oil production totaling 493,126,000

War Also Brings Livestock Diseases

U. S. Veterinarians Mobilize for Action

(Special to Western Newspaper Union.)

Will American farmers, in this war, be able to keep down the livestock plagues which have cut so seriously into the nation's food production in some of our former wars?

Will we be able to deliver the millions of tons of food needed to help win the war for ourselves and our allies?

These questions are causing serious concern to farm and livestock leaders this spring, and definite steps are already being taken to throw every possible safeguard around the nation's livestock production machinery during this critical 1942.

One of the most important steps in this direction is being taken this month with the mobilizing of the entire veterinary profession from coast to coast, under preparedness committees named by the various state veterinary medical associations.

Another step is the inspection service now being maintained at all important ports of entry into the United States. Every animal brought in from a foreign country is given a thorough examination by government veterinarians to make sure that foreign livestock plagues are not brought in to threaten our home herds.

Civil War Epidemic.

That serious outbreaks of livestock disease could wreck certain phases of our food producing effort is evidenced by the history of some of America's former wars. During the Civil war, for example, our cattle population was virtually wiped out in some sections by Texas fever. Cattle in other areas were devastated by outbreaks of pleuropneumonia. Large sections of the swine belt experienced severe outbreaks of hog cholera. As a result, meat supplies for our armies were strictly limited, and "hard tack and sow belly" became a by-word among soldiers of the Civil war.

With livestock disease controls broken down, Europe's great food producing regions are being swept today by severe outbreaks, which are adding their share to starvation conditions in the war-torn regions.

"America is the most healthful country in the world for livestock and we intend to keep it so despite the stress of war conditions," Dr. H. W. Jakeman, president of the American Veterinary Medical association, said this week in reporting upon the wartime program of the veterinary profession.

Steps by which farmers can cooperate in the campaign against preventable livestock disease include:

Raising pigs on clean ground, to avoid infection by disease germs lurking in old hog lots.

Calfhood vaccination to prevent Bang's disease losses. Inspection, aggregation, and treatment of dairy cattle for mastitis.

Immunization of horses against encephalomyelitis before the insect and mosquito season.

Isolation of newly purchased livestock from the home herd for a safe period to avoid spreading diseases.

Prompt diagnosis by a qualified veterinarian at the first signs of livestock illness.

Ready and Able

Agriculture today is in many ways better organized to meet the increased production of farm products which we need to feed our armies and those of the United Nations. Yet care should be exercised to see that soil resources are not depleted for the sake of possible temporary gains.

Also that the fertility resources of the soil are not wasted.

Avoid plowing land with slopes of 25 per cent or better; practice contour or strip cropping; plant cover crops for soil protection; these are just a few of the practices suggested. Farmers could do well to consult their county agricultural agents for help on preventing erosion and the depletion of soil elements.

ALFALFA BREEDERS 'GOIN' TO TOWN' WITH NEW STRAINS

Alfalfa breeders are "going to town"—literally—with some of the promising new strains that yield well and are resistant to disease and weather injury. This is because a vacant lot in a town is likely to be the best place available to increase small quantities of seed with reasonable assurance of protecting it from contamination by unimproved alfalfas that will effect the new strains.

YOUR CAR How to Get the MOST out of it

FEEL ITS PULSE OCCASIONALLY

A modern automobile, like a human being, can take a lot of punishment and still keep going. Just because your car is able to move away from the curb under its own power, don't assume it is operating efficiently. If you notice some obvious symptoms, naturally you investigate. But even if you don't find any symptoms, it pays to run a finger over your car's pulse occasionally.

Simplest check is gas consumption. Fill your tank. Note your speedometer mileage. Keep a record of the gas added. After 1000 miles fill the tank again and divide the mileage driven by the number of gallons added plus the gas required to fill it the second time. Most car ailments affect gas mileage, just as most bodily ailments affect pulse beat. So if your mileage per gallon is low, further investigation is warranted. Bad spark plugs, for example, sometimes waste as much as one gallon in ten.

Occasional periodic check-ups are recommended for the following:

Cooling system. Radiator, flush out twice a year. Fan belt, check for shredding at 10,000 miles.

Ignition system. Distributor points and timing, every 10,000 miles. Spark plugs, every 5,000 miles. Spark control, for correct adjustment to type of gas used.

Fuel system. Automatic choke, twice a year if seasonal adjustments are required. Fuel pump, once or twice a year. Fuel lines, occasionally for leaks. Don't forget the air cleaner needs cleaning too, and don't tinker with the carburetor.

Drive system. Adjust clutch occasionally so that pedal has one inch of "play."

My little sister, Judy, was so scared when she saw our mother cat carry its little kitten by the nape of its neck, she exclaimed: "Oh, you naughty thing! You're not fit to be a mother! Why, you aren't hardly fit to be a father."

LIFE WITH FATHER

FATHER: I've called this family council to get our living program adjusted.

MOTHER: What's the trouble, Father?

FATHER: Well, the way living costs are up, I'll give a dollar to anybody here who contributes a suggestion to save money. How about it, Bob, my boy?

DAUGHTER MARY: For goodness sake, Father, you know Bob never saved a cent in his life... he...

SON BOB: Silence, worm! I've got an ad here. It's about motor oil and it says: "You can hardly think of one working part in your engine as cheap to replace as dirty, thin oil—a jinx to precious parts."

FATHER: I get it, son... and that car of ours has to go another two years at least. What oil is it?

SON BOB: It's Conoco Nth motor oil and the ad tells how the six engines were run to destruction in a Certified Death Valley Test. Conoco Nth made twice the mileage averaged by the five other big-name oils.

FATHER: Son, you get the first dollar. Take the car down tomorrow and get Conoco Nth oil.

Join Bob in this economy move! See your Mileage Merchant and get Conoco Nth oil for an OIL-PLATED engine. Continental Oil Company

POT SHOTS FROM McCAULLEY

BY GEO. DARDEN

Joe Hunter and Louis Hopkins of McCaulley were sworn in in the construction department of the Naval Reserve in Dallas last week and are back home just waiting for the call. Mr. Hunter goes into the Navy as Chief Water Tender and Mr. Hopkins as a Ship Fitter. For the past several years Hunter has been employed as chief engineer at the Farmers Gin in McCaulley. Hopkins worked for the past fifteen years at Rector's Garage, except for the past three months he has been employed at the Texas Cement & Plaster Co.

The Methodist meeting is in progress at the McCaulley tabernacle with Bro. Lee of Rule, Texas, doing the preaching. You are cordially invited to attend these services. The meeting will continue through this week and next.

A big chicken dinner was enjoyed by a number of friends and relatives in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Mayo last Sunday. Those enjoying the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fahey, their son and daughter, LeRoy and Linda Rose; Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Mayo and two daughters, Joe Ann and Marletta of Lorraine; Mr. and Mrs. Fahey of Hamlin, parents of Edward Fahey; Mrs. Abshear of Houston, a sister of Mrs. Fahey; Mr. and Mrs. Alf Hemphill and Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Hemphill of McCaulley and Billie Fahey, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Mayo.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Darden of Girard, parents of this scribe, spent last Sunday in the home of the Geo. Dardens. Bess Darden returned to Kent County with her grandparents for a two weeks visit.

The election will be held next Saturday at the tabernacle. S. E. Miers is the election judge. Others who will help with the election are Melvin Hunter, Harvey Hennington, O. T. Hennington and others who have not yet been selected.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Fancher moved to Plasterco last week. Mr. Fancher is employed at the Gyp mill.

Wesley and Bynum Akins are now employees of the Texas Cement and Plaster Co., and began work on their new job Monday.

Each Sunday the mens Bible class at the McCaulley Baptist church is gaining in numbers. Every seat was taken last Sunday in the class room. Won't you come? A hearty welcome awaits you.

Mrs. Lewis Gist is spending the summer with her parents in McCaulley. Her husband has recently enlisted in the U. S. Army.

Word comes to us that Guy Kemp, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Kemp, who is in the air corps and stationed at Columbus, Miss., has been promoted to Corporal and is in charge of a ground crew.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hodnett and son Audry visited one day last week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Miers. Mr. Hodnett tells us that his son J. C. and daughter Annie Ruth are employed at Grand Prairie.

Now that most of the single men of McCaulley have either volunteered or have been inducted into some branch of the service, it appears now that some of the married men are thinking seriously of joining up.

Jack Maberry was home over the week end visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maberry.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maberry and grand daughter Norma Jean Rossen of San Antonio are in McCaulley for a few days visit with his mother and other relatives.

The job as United States Senator is a big job. It is a job for men who can command the respect of the big and the little, the poor and the rich, and it is a job where statesmanship is of vital importance.

Dan Moody has all of the qualifications. His experience is far beyond that of our present Junior Senator in the art of government. Dan Moody can match the best of orators in debate. He is courageous, honest and fearless.

Dan Moody in all of his past campaigns, from the district attorney of Williamson County to the Governor of the State of Texas, has never in all of his campaigns tried or even attempted to dodge any issue which concerned the people.

This war, in which we are all involved, is something that gravely concerns us all. Yet, Mr. O'Daniel says we have nothing to worry about and that we are over the hump in this war. Yet we have met defeat after defeat and still Senator O'Daniel would lead the people to believe that this war is no issue.

Mr. O'Daniel does not deny that he voted against the selective service draft law yet he harps on his patriotism since he has a son that was inducted into the armed forces. We could cite instance after instance where fathers and mothers have given their sons to their country without a whimper because they know that the future of civilization is at stake and they also know that we are far from being over the hump, as our junior senator would have us believe.

In our home town, there are two widowed mothers who have given five boys to the armed forces and all five of these boys volunteered for service that you and I might live in a country free from slavery and dictators, and yet our junior senator says we are over the hump.

In order that we may have sound, fearless, honest and courageous representation in the United States Senate, and in order to be represented by a statesman who by his past has proved his qualifications, we believe it is our duty to go to the polls next Saturday and cast our vote for Dan Moody.

Keep Long Distance VOICWAYS clear for VICTORY!

The weight of war on the long distance telephone lines grows heavier every day. We can't build new lines to carry it because materials aren't available. We've got to make the most of the service we now have.

To keep our lines free for calls essential to fighting the war, we need your help and sympathetic understanding.

In general, of course, we are able to handle fairly easily calls over shorter distances. But remember always that if your call goes to a large city where war work is under way, or must pass through such cities, it may add to an already dangerous congestion. This is especially true in the rush hours from 9 to 12 in the morning, 2 to 5 in the afternoon, 7 to 9 at night.

On calls to more distant points during those hours, we are sure you will feel that your personal interests must give way to official messages that constantly are flooding our lines.

By thoughtful use of telephone service civilians can help to win the war.

And we know you're glad to help.

War calls come first!
